

Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society Will 'Show and Do'

By DONNA HARTWICK
Press-Record Staff Writer

A group of residents interested in restoring older homes and developing a beautification plan for the downtown area and surrounding neighborhoods have organized the Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society as the first phase of a long-range plan to improve the appearance of homes and increase their value.

Officers elected to lead the group of 15 couples are Walt Padgett, president; Mrs. Roger Mefford, secretary; John K. Mefford, treasurer, and Mrs. Judy Padgett, historian.

Tentative objective of the program is to contact home owners within the boundaries of 24th Street to Niedringhaus Ave., from Adams Street to Madison Avenue, and enroll them as families in the society.

The group will meet in the members' homes to discuss economical and sound ideas for improvement and restoration of their property. Mrs. Padgett announced.

Purpose of the society is to "show by doing" to anyone on a limited budget that an older home can be modernized and improved without an exorbitant price for the decorative work. Eventually the group plans to invite any local householder to become a member of the organization to exchange constructive ideas.

Many older homes can have a refreshing and appealing as well as an attractive look with a fresh coat of paint and the addition of shutters at windows and doors, and stone or brick work added to the original structure, Mrs. Padgett explained.

The society will begin a letter-writing campaign to invite merchants, the Chamber of Commerce, the mayor and residents to participate in the project. The society members are open to any suggestions that will expedite the program, Mrs. Padgett said.

In the future, the society also will begin to compile information relating to the history of some of the older homes and background of the early settlers. It is hoped to include pictures of the early construction of the area to provide an interesting review of past eras for Granite Cityans.

With the trend to retain historical buildings of cities and towns spreading throughout the country, the historical phase should prove to be both an interesting and a satisfying part of the overall program, Mrs. Padgett added.

She said an extensive survey was made in the downtown area in 1968 by a professional group, sponsored with federal funds. Their findings held that this particular area of the city was deteriorating and could be improved by citizens who would join together in an organization to formulate specific plans for home improvements and to encourage pride of the home owners.

Landscape ideas also will be a part of the meeting topics and will be designed by members to enhance the overall appearance of the residences.

In the final analysis, the society hopes to work with business men in the commercial section of the downtown area as well as the residents of outlying sections, Mrs. Padgett said.

Anyone who wishes more information or would like to attend the meetings may contact Mrs. Padgett at 576-843, or John Mefford at 451-5785.

Officers of the newly organized society conferred last week with the Lakeside Square Historical Society of St. Louis. Projects of mutual interest will be discussed and ideas exchanged with the hope that the St. Louis society can assist the local group in developing formative plans here.

Total Ban on Construction To Be Eased

(Editorial on Page 16)

Worded interpreted as banning construction in the western area of Madison County Board at its March meeting, Darden, was partly changed Thursday evening by the Madison County Plan Commission in acting on the text of a proposed land use plan.

The 30-page document is to be the subject of a public meeting, tentatively set for March 8, and it may be considered by the Madison County Board at its March meeting.

Challenged by East St. Louis, Edwardsville and Alton area news reporters who have joined Darden in opposing American Bottoms and "flood plain" development, Commission Chairman Edmund Morrissey defended the commission against the allegation that it had "purged" wording that was to have been the backbone of the plan.

Asked what the commission members felt was supposed to be accomplished by the plan, Morrissey replied that "the Great White Father in Washington" had said "Madison County needs a land use plan and the county is attempting to comply."

Darden argued for retention of sections and phrases intended to "discourage" and "postpone" and prevent Quad-City area development, indicated he might accept a change to "held in abeyance" pending federal drainage studies.

Morrissey said completion of such studies may be "years away."

The concept of hillside drainage installations, usually involving expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars in the Madison-St. Clair Counties area, has been under discussion for decades.

John Ubaldi, a commission member, favored development on the condition that there is adequate engineering data proving that drainage and sewage disposal have been accounted for and solved.

He said Darden's wording would eliminate all development in the American Bottoms, the region between the Mississippi River and the bluffs.

Darden cited current drainage problems in the Doherty Slough area and said the average home buyer "doesn't check soil, sewage systems or whether the home might be in a flood area."

The commission decided to add a paragraph supporting the idea of an interceptor sewer line from Edwardsville and Glen Carbon to a proposed Chouteau-Namack-Glenn City-Venice

Second Death After Explosion in Garage

John Thomas Pempiller, 32, of 37 Moorland Drive, Mitchell, critically burned in a fire and explosion Jan. 23, died at 10:58 a.m. Thursday at St. John's Mercy Hospital, St. Louis, where he had been a patient in the intensive care burn unit since the accident.

He and Harvey Canmore, 35, of 17 Iris Court, Pontoon Beach, were cleaning oil from Mr. Canmore's garage floor with gasoline when fumes ignited, causing an explosion and fire. Both men suffered second and third degree burns to nearly all of their bodies.

Mr. Canmore died two days later at St. John's Mercy. Mr. Pempiller was born in Newton, Iowa. He moved here five years ago from Panama, Iowa, and was employed by the U. S. Army Aviation Systems Command (AVSCOM), St. Louis, as an inventory management specialist. He was a member of St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Phyllis Pempiller; two sons, Mark and Ernest Pempiller, at home; three daughters, Misses Cheryl A., Cecilia and Vera Pempiller, at home; two stepsons, Joseph White, stationed at the Granite City Army Installation, and James F. White of Fort Bragg, N.C.

A stepdaughter, Mrs. Carolyn Goodman of Memphis, Tenn.; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Pempiller of Panama, Iowa; two sisters, Mrs. Sandra Brautz of Champaign and Mrs. Barbara Rupert of Cedar Falls, Iowa; a brother, Richard Pempiller of Panama; a grandmother, Mrs. Dorothy Pempiller of Perry, Iowa, and his parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Slack of Walla Walla, Wash.

Funeral services were held today. Details may be found in the obituary column.

Man Missing; Car on Bridge

A St. Louis man is believed to have jumped from McKinley Bridge at Venice Thursday night.

The abandoned auto of the 51-year-old man was found at the west end of the bridge superstructure in the eastbound lane at 8:05 p.m.

The engine was running and the car's headlights were lighted, Venice police reported.

Officers talked with the man's co-workers at a St. Louis ambulance service where one worker said the man had told him earlier in the evening that he wanted to be dead within 15 minutes and would jump from a bridge.

The Coast Guard and Fifth District St. Louis police were notified and began a search and investigation. The man's wife in St. Louis was notified. She reported her husband had not returned home.

Cancel Original Show Substitute Planned

State Fair Productions, Inc., of Nashville, Tenn., has canceled a show it had planned for March 4 in Granite City, according to a letter received here Friday, postmarked Feb. 13 in Nashville.

George W. Cooper III, president, added that Earle Trigg, described as a State Fair Productions independent contractor, "will provide a country music show for the entertainment of those who have already purchased tickets."

Cooper took the position that the originally planned show could not be a success because of newspaper publicity and because of a negative vote by a local organization.

He made no mention of actions taken by the Illinois attorney general and Madison County Circuit Court to suspend the ticket sales pending compliance with state laws and pending an accounting to the court on utilization of funds.

Some of those contacted for contributions had raised the question of whether there were adequate controls on expenditure of the proceeds during the sales campaign.

Ticket sales and collections were dominated by a paid staff. A witness at a Feb. 14 court hearing testified that no receipt was given for funds she collected and turned in to the sales office.

Sheriff's Staff Pay Hikes Ruled Illegal

A 5 1/2 percent board pay increase planned for members of the Madison County sheriff's staff was ruled illegal Friday by State's Atty. Nicholas G. Byron.

He and an assistant, Don Smith, informed the finance committee of the Madison County Board that it acted illegally in ordering the pay raises which were to take effect with the Feb. 28 checks.

The committee, headed by J. J. Gramlich of Highland, agreed to a package calling for the increase and other benefits for employees represented by Operating Engineers Local 520 of Mitchell.

The county budget provides for a 2 1/2 percent increase, or about $16,000. The committee was told that only the county board has the authority to grant a salary increase, and that "you can't contract for more than you've got. That's not an emergency."

It was reported that some committee members believed they could spend the $16,000 for salary increases and then declare an emergency to appropriate more money for the pay hikes.

State law prohibits spending money not appropriated and permits adding to appropriations only for emergencies. Gramlich said the committee members had not signed an agreement and that a vote had not been taken.

Faculty in Madison To Be Cut in '73-'74

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

All first and second year teachers in the Madison School District are being informed this week that their jobs may be eliminated.

CRAFTSMANSHIP was the secret to success in the annual carpenter apprentice manipulative contest Saturday at the Carpenters' District Council of Madison County and vicinity hall. Here Gary Plog of Local 990, Greenville, was second place winner, nails down the floor for an "A" frame scale-model home he built during the day-long contest. Clyde Frey of Local 295 in Collinsville was the winner and will compete in a state contest this spring.

The move was described by Fred Riddle, school superintendent, as "protection for our own safety and welfare because we financially are involved in this."

There are six first-year and four second-year teachers to be notified.

Riddle said the board is required to give 60 day notices to teachers that their positions may be eliminated, and whether or not the dismissals become necessary, the notices should be issued.

He said the board could wait one month before issuing the notices but that the earlier the teachers are notified, the better the positions they will be in if jobs elsewhere are available.

Average daily attendance in the district has declined from 2,580 during the 1971-72 school year to 2,339 this year, a decrease of 111 students during January.

State aid of $239 per student per year amounts to $57,726 lost by the district. A similar loss of from 100 to 115 students is anticipated again next year.

By actual count, the number of students in the district declined from 2,726 in June 1972 to 2,408 last month, a decrease of 318 students, or more than $187,000 in state aid. The average daily attendance, however, is the figure used by the state in determining state aid payments.

Eliminating the jobs of five teachers will save about $12,500 per year, about $15,000 short of the state aid loss.

"We face a loss other than the state aid for attendance," Riddle explained after the meeting.

"We think the assessed valuation will go down in the district and we are all skeptical about the money situation for next year," he added.

The board obviously was reluctant to notify the first and second-year teachers of the possibility of termination. Chester McManaway, acting as board president in the absence of Harold Fisk, asked for a motion to issue the notices, but received no reply.

McManaway then asked for a motion to table the notices one month and again received no reply.

His third attempt was to ask for a motion to not notify the teachers of the possible terminations but again there was no answer.

Finally, Willie Walker, a board member, said, "I would not like to see anyone notified," but he admitted the necessity of the move. James Childers made the motion to notify the teachers and Walker seconded it. It passed unanimously.

Guilty Verdict Against Kerner

Former Illinois Governor Otto Kerner was found guilty late this morning in his trial on race track stock bribery charges. He has been inactive as a federal appeals judge during the course of the trial.

The initial announcement did not specify how many charges the guilty verdict related to; he had been indicted on 19 counts, including income tax evasion and perjury. The allegation was that he profited from track stock purchased while, naming the state officials who controlled racing dates and authorizations.

Interest in Forming New Junior College

Interest in formation of a new junior college district encompassing the Granite City, Madison, Venice, and Collinsville school districts was expressed by the Madison Board of Education Thursday night.

Fred Riddle, superintendent, reported he has been studying the junior college issue. He said this area has several options but is unable to act on any at this time.

Supt. Riddle said the Madison school district might be able to join the Lewis & Clark Community College, Belleville Area College or East St. Louis Community College, but only after Granite City and Collinsville make decisions on which district to join.

He explained that a school district may be adjacent to the junior college district in order to petition to join. "Collinsville is between us and the Belleville Area Junior College and Granite City is between us and Lewis & Clark. We can't do a thing."

Two options remain, Supt. Riddle said—join efforts to formulate a new district or to attempt to join East St. Louis.

"The East St. Louis district is reimbursed 100% by the state and the costs are not paid by East St. Louis taxpayers."

"If we joined, we might not have to pay any junior college taxes, but have been informed this may change," Riddle told the board.

The board agreed to form a citizens' advisory body to study the junior college issue. Each school board member will appoint one person to the advisory group, a total of seven members.

Formulation of the advisory body was suggested by the office of the state superintendent of public instruction (OSPI), who also suggested formation of similar groups to study equal educational opportunities and to formulate plans to comply with the state program on "evaluation, supervision and recognition" of curriculum.

The board members agreed to each appoint three persons, one to each of the advisory bodies. Board members will serve as ex-officio members of the three citizen groups.

A state screening test to determine early learning problems will be given to all first grade students in the district tomorrow, the board was told. The half-hour test, required by the OSPI, is to be given to all first grade students in the state this year.

The Automated Graphostatic Technique (AGT) test will be scored by the state and the results will be sent to each district. There will be no cost to individual districts, the board was informed.

"Landmarks of Freedom" plaques, donated by Granite City Trust & Savings Bank to every school in the Quad-Cities, were accepted on behalf of Madison schools by the board. A letter of appreciation is to be sent to bank officials.

A basic "flaw" in planners' thinking is said to stem from the fact that when county zoning was adopted in the early 1960s, it was the understanding of all parties that most undeveloped areas would be shown as agricultural but only until specified projects had been submitted and evaluated.

It was the contention at that time that farm zoning was given as a convenience, rather than as an assertion that agricultural use was considered to be the desirable permanent status.

In the last several years, however, Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission planners and some regional and federal authorities have asserted that agricultural "green belts" must remain permanently.

Authors Blame Professional for Urban Plan Failures

Drawing on their experiences in East St. Louis, a practicing planner and a political scientist conclude in a new book that urban planning in the United States has failed to revitalize cities partially because of professional planners themselves.

The book, "The Politics of Urban Planning: The East St. Louis Experience," (University of Illinois Press, 234 pages), was written by Robert E. Mendelson and Dennis R. Judd. It will be published early in March.

Mendelson, with the Center for Urban and Environmental Research and Services at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, served for two years as chief planner in the East St. Louis Model Cities program. Between 1966 and 1969, Mendelson also conducted studies, prepared grant applications and acted as an advocate planner for various East St. Louis groups.

Judd, currently on the political science faculty at Washington University in St. Louis, studied politics in East St. Louis as a research associate with the Institute of Government and Public Affairs at the University of Illinois and participated in the Department of Housing and Urban Development's evaluation of the Model Cities program.

Granite City PRESS-RECORD

The authors look at three case studies in East St. Louis: urban renewal planning, attempts to develop the city's Mississippi River frontage area and the Model Cities program after an opening chapter examining the heritage of political machines and the recent history of massive poverty, unemployment and increasing black militance in the city of about 70,000 residents.

Mendelson and Judd discount the oft-repeated explanation of a hostile social and political environment as the reason for the failure of planners' plans to revitalize East St. Louis.

"At first glance this explanation would seem logical and persuasive . . . (but) our involvement and research on planning in East St. Louis made us skeptical about the environmental explanation," the authors say. "As the book unfolded our views tended to join those of resident critics who argued that something appeared to be wrong with the planning process as it had been carried out locally."

Mendelson and Judd say the tendency of planners not to understand the legitimate claims of neighborhood groups and other interests has been harmful. In discussing the 1968-69 failure of a proposal by Allied Mortgage and Development Co. to build 5,000 turnkey housing units in East St. Louis, they say:

"In the Allied case, the professional planners' autonomy from the black community had led them to seriously underestimate—if they thought of it at all—the political changes which were taking place in East St. Louis. Moreover, they viewed housing and redevelopment as self-evidently good. Justifiably, they felt that East St. Louis was in critical need of federal aid."

"Their reaction to the controversy which surrounded the announcement of the Allied plan was that the opposition was self-serving and politically motivated. They simply could not understand why anyone would oppose the project. It did not occur to the professionals that opposition might be connected to past bulldozer projects, such as the clearing of residential areas near downtown with little subsequent redevelopment, or the construction of a spaghetti-like system of interstate highways and ramps through and over residential areas."

"From the professionals' perspective, opposition developed and ultimately killed a critically needed housing project; from the residents' perspective, opposition meant a chance for them to have something to say about types of housing for their community, who would build it and who would live in it. And it also gave local black leaders power to give their preferences greater credence than the preferences of those who did not live in their neighborhood or even in their community."

Similar conflicts arose in the three case studies, presented in great detail, but perhaps overriding the planners' inability to understand legitimate claims of other groups were the factors of job security, prestige and agency prerogatives.

In the first case study, urban renewal planning, the authors discuss how the federal government's role in East St. Louis became primarily an attempt to build a professionalized administrative capacity in local government.

"Program implementation was, if necessary, sacrificed to achieve the growth of professionalism," Mendelson and Judd write. "The primary purpose for much activity and federal funding was to increase the number of hired professionals. Attempts to create individual professional autonomy and larger local bureaucracies often came at the expense of engaging in activities to translate plans into operating programs."

The authors say similar tendencies appeared in planning for development of the East St. Louis riverfront:

"For years, plans for the area were prepared without any attempt to go beyond the publication of aesthetically pleasing booklets. Even though no programs resulted, the cost of planning escalated, amounting to about $400,000 from 1960 to 1970."

An illusion of imminent redevelopment was maintained with the promise of immediate action following the publication of each new proposal.

Planning, however, remained detached from those political interests which may have been able to supply the necessary resources for effectuating redevelopment. Perhaps for that reason, river-front planning was uniformly abstract and grandiose."

In the third case study, Model Cities, the authors examine a program that did get funded in 1967. But, they say, despite its potential for redevelopment and community mobilization, Model Cities by 1969 became dominated by planners attempting to satisfy endless federal bureaucratic requirements.

After examining the situation in East St. Louis, the authors look at planning efforts in other locales and paint a picture hardly more encouraging.

"Our review of the (planning) literature revealed that what happened in East St. Louis rather accurately reflected the norms and doctrines of the profession . . . characterizing planners as neutral experts, independent and superior to laymen or even other professionals. Moreover, the literature rarely went beyond a thinly veiled attempt to enhance, justify and preserve the profession. Planners had developed a self-enhancing ideology which extolled the profession more than it described the tasks and roles of its practitioners."

Mendelson and Judd also examined the literature of advocacy (as opposed to traditional planners), but found that the advocacy doctrine also has failings, partly because of the planners' insulated and autonomous position. They say that the training, values and self-interest even of the well-intentioned advocacy planner often lead to manipulation, rather than representation, of clients.

To overcome such problems as that plans may at times actually be implemented, the authors sketch a professional role which seeks to avoid the liabilities of professional autonomy and power.

"Professional autonomy partially accounts for what occurred in East St. Louis," Mendelson and Judd say. "Only when the clients of planning can share in determining what the professional role is and ought to accomplish will planning be basically changed. If 'effective' planning is which makes up the public presumably have to be included."

FIGHTING SIGN FIRE, Granite City firemen utilized the aerial truck to extinguish a fire in the sign at Biederman's Furniture Co., 3675 Nameoki Road, occurring last week. The fire was started by an electrical short in the second letter from the top, but the melting plastic letters rained fire onto the other letters, setting them ablaze. Flames can be seen enveloping the letter R in this photo. Damage was estimated at several thousand dollars. Firemen were on the scene 40 minutes.

January Traffic Deaths Decline 3% From 1972

Traffic fatalities decreased 3% in January as the result of six fewer deaths compared with the same period in 1972, Illinois Transportation Secretary William F. Cellini has reported.

Reports by the Department of Transportation and Illinois State Police show that 167 persons died in traffic accidents during January. During the same period in 1972, 173 persons died as the result of traffic accidents.

The 1972 provisional death toll now stands at 2,246. This is a 6% decrease from the 2,400 traffic deaths reported in 1971. Cellini commented "Despite the rising traffic toll in other states, Illinois has reversed the trend during the last three years. This decrease in fatalities is even more phenomenal when considered in the light of the increased number of miles driven in Illinois last year."

There was a 6% increase in the number of miles driven in Illinois last year. Early computations show that 61 billion miles were recorded in 1972, compared with 57.4 billion in 1971.

A breakdown of accidents for January 1973 indicates that 78 fatalities occurred as the result of 71 accidents in which only one vehicle was involved.

State Taxpayers Should File Proper Exemptions

Illinois taxpayers who fail to claim proper exemptions could be overpaying their state taxes, the Illinois Department of Revenue advises.

Generally, for every exemption claimed on the federal return, taxpayers may claim $1,000 for their Illinois return. The standard exemption for Illinois residents is $1,000. For each additional exemption, $1,000 is allowed.

Two exemptions are allowed for Illinois taxpayers who are blind or over 65. Taxpayers who are both blind and over 65 may claim three exemptions, plus one exemption for a spouse if filing a joint return and one for each dependent claimed.

The Illinois Department of Revenue operates walk-in tax assistance offices at several locations throughout the state. Taxpayers who need help with their returns should watch local newspapers for location, days and time of this service.

Illinois taxpayers may also call 800-972-1630 toll-free for tax assistance.

Robin Deterding Wins Speed Skating Title

Robin Deterding, 14-year-old Granite City speed skater, won the junior girls championship at the Southwest Open Championships Sunday at the St. Louis Arena.

The speed skating meet, one of the top midwest events of the season, is held annually in conjunction with the Silver Skates Carnival in St. Louis.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Deterding, 2812 Idaho St., the youthful skater achieved first-place victories in the 440 and 880-yard distance events and a second-place finish in the 220-yard race.

She accumulated a total of 13 points to win the championship trophy, beating her nearest competitor by six points. In addition to the trophy she received two gold medals and one silver disc.

Championships are determined in each age class by accumulating points based on finish position in the final races. Points are awarded on the basis of five for first place, three for second, two for third and one for fourth.

Eighteen girls competed in the junior division preliminary heats held all day Saturday and Sunday morning, leading up to the final races Sunday night. More than 6,000 fans viewed the silver Skates and speed skating programs.

Last year, the Coolidge Junior High School ninth grade student won the juvenile division championship.

Robin has been speed skating three years, but the current season is the first time she has had an opportunity to increase her skills by spending several weekends at the United States sole Olympic-size outdoor speed skating rink located in a suburb of Milwaukee, Wis., according to her mother, Mrs. Judith Deterding, an upper primary level teacher at Frohardt Grade School.

The speedster's father is varsity basketball coach at Granite City High School.

In advancing to the junior division for this season's competition, Robin now is among the younger skaters in her 14-15 year age category. She was required to compete in seven different heats on her way to last night's final races, her mother said today.

Chris Brandt of Granite City earned third place in the championship standings with five points, skating in the juvenile, boys division.

Other Granite City youths participating in the meet were Jeanette Juneau, junior girls; Phil Bagl, junior boys; and Keith Watson, juvenile boys.

The Deterding girl is a member of the Gateway Speed Skating Club.

Mrs. Theresa Magyar Dies at Age 89

Mrs. Theresa Magyar, 89, of Rural Route One, Highland, who came to Granite City in 1905 from Hungary and resided here until four years ago, died at 6:30 a.m. Sunday at the Highland Manor Nursing Home.

She had been a patient at the nursing home for one and a half years.

Mrs. Magyar was a member of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church and belonged to the William Penn Lodge.

Her husband, Balazs Magyar, died April 10, 1966.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Alex (Theresa) Kiraly of Highland, Mrs. Lester (Helen) Vogel of St. Louis and Mrs. Joseph (Margie) Veizer of Toledo, Ohio; three sons, Steve Magyar of Wilmington, Calif., Blaise Magyar and Joseph Magyar, both of Granite City; 14 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Involvement by Business Leaders Seen as Key to Attracting Industry

Involvement by business leaders is the key to making the Quad-City area a better community for new industrial operations, Richard Dykes, executive director of the Illinois Metro East Industrial Development Corporation, told Granite City Optimists Thursday.

In a discussion of the industrial plant location process, Dykes noted several factors important in industrial site location decisions.

"The final decision essentially boils down to an analysis of the community in which a potential site is located," Dykes stressed.

He said that an ideal community would be one with the following assets:

- A small but steadily growing population.
- An honest government structure which provides maximum services for the tax dollars spent.
- A comprehensive planning and zoning program.
- A strong commercial base with adequate parking facilities available downtown as well as in outlying areas.
- Good school systems which are keeping pace with rising enrollments through new construction.
- Adequate utility systems with service available to all residents.
- Good medical facilities with the ratio of hospital beds, doctors, and dentists per 1,000 population exceeding national averages.
- Alert news media which show a keen awareness of local and area events.
- Good temporary living accommodations including hotels, motels, restaurants and meeting facilities.
- A good transportation network including airports, access to the Interstate highway system, trucking services and barge transportation.
- An adequate labor supply and good industrial relations climate. City leaders can document the availability of a substantial number of workers in the area.
- A good industrial relations climate is evidenced by the fact that the city has experienced no or few work stoppages in the past five years.
- The cost of goods produced by industry in the city is low, not because low wages are being paid, but because high productivity are characteristic of the local labor force.
- A number of well-planned and developed industrial sites in which utilities and streets have already been extended.

-A balanced local economy such that no single operation or industrial type dominates the area.

-A strong industrial development program which will insure the site location executive of prompt and professional assistance.

"The Quad-City area rates well in terms of some of these criteria but falls short in others," Dykes said. "The point which needs to be made is that it is important that we all work to change those conditions which are tending to inhibit our growth and development as a community and as an area."

He added that only through involvement can such changes be realized.

"Good communities don't just happen," according to Dykes. "They are created by their residents, but more specifically by their leaders."

"New industrial and business operations are located where the potential for profit is the greatest."

"A community which can demonstrate this potential for profit stands a good chance of gaining a new industrial neighbor."

World Day of Prayer March 2 at SIUE

"World Day of Prayer" in the Quad-City area, sponsored annually by Church Women United, will take place Friday, March 2, at the Religious Center on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, it was announced today by Mrs. Fred L. Rupp, Church Women United, president.

Mrs. Joyce Mitchell is serving as general chairman for the special event, with Mrs. Joan Roberts as World Day of Prayer coordinator, Mrs. Rupp as advisor.

Due to the site of this year's program, bus service has been arranged from three locations in the Quad-Cities to the SIUE Religious Center, Mrs. Mitchell reported.

Reservations for the buses may be made through Friday by calling Mrs. Harriet Lovins, at 877-6336. Cost of the roundtrip transportation will be $1.50 per person, the chairman said.

The buses will depart at 9 a.m. March 2 from Madison United Methodist Church, Fifth Street and Ewing Avenue, Madison; St. Peter United Evangelical Church of Christ, 2103 Cleveland Blvd.; and Central Christian Church, 2020 Johnson Road. Any person wishing to attend the program may board a bus at any of the three locations, Mrs. Mitchell said.

Women of the Madison United Methodist Church are serving as hostesses at the World Day of Prayer, and will provide cookies and coffee under the supervision of Mrs. Sue Bogue, chairman. Participants, however, are requested to provide their own sack lunch, she said.

Registration will take place at 9:30 a.m. March 2, with the service beginning at 10 a.m. During the initial service "Alert in Our Times" banners, constructed by each participating church, will be accepted by Mrs. Rupp on behalf of the Church Women United.

The motto on the banners reads the 1973 World Day of Prayer theme, Mrs. Mitchell explained, noting that the theme to some may mean being alive, being aware and being awake to what is going on. It may signify such ideas as casting off apathy through just watching and listening.

Mon., Feb. 19, 1973 Page 9

"We will be considering together during the day what it might mean for church women to be alert in our own community to recognize possible 'breakthroughs,'" the chairman said.

Three brief talks are scheduled at 10:15 a.m., featuring the Rev. Russ Wigfield, a Christian minister associated with the United Campus Ministry at SIUE, who will speak to the topic "Alert to Self."

The Rev. Joe Santee, a Baptist minister will review the subject—"Alert to Your Family"—and the Rev. Mark Pera, a Lutheran pastor, will discuss the topic "Alert to the World."

The Rev. Wigfield also will lead a meditation period at 11:15 a.m., when books and records will be made available to those attending, Mrs. Mitchell said.

A sack lunch will follow at 12:15 and at 1 p.m. the program will resume with a worship service, conducted by the Rev. James Shortall, a Catholic priest with the SIUE United Campus Ministry.

A liturgical dance—"A Tale"—will be performed during the service by seven SIUE students under the direction of Al Wiltz III, SIUE director of choreography.

Buses will leave the campus for Granite City at 2 p.m.

A display of books containing descriptions of modern and traditional religions will be exhibited at the World Day of Prayer, arranged by Rev. Dr. L. Jim Anthis, pastor of Central Christian Church.

Byron added that the treasurer, who is the ex-officio county collector, has no authority to delegate collection responsibility to banks unless the service is provided free and the money turned over to the county immediately.

State Appointments on Prisons, Conservation Will Be Opposed

By KEN WATSON
Copley News Service

Springfield — The sideshow is about to over-shadow the main event.

That's the immediate prospect as the 1973 Illinois legislature begins to pick up momentum and the working pace quickens.

The spotlight will soon focus on the Senate Executive Committee where the Republican majority is preparing to give intensive scrutiny to a number of high-level appointees of Democratic Gov. Dan Walker.

Major appointments are subject to confirmation by the Senate and it is in the Executive Committee where the traditional grilling takes place.

When the governorship and the Senate are controlled by opposite parties, the hearing rite is especially rough.

This year it is likely to be even more so because Walker since his November election victory has antagonized many legislators, Democrats as well as Republicans, and his appointees can expect less support from the governor's own party than would ordinarily be the case.

In fact, the feeling beneath the Statehouse Dome is that some Democrats, irritated by Walker's repudiation of the patronage system and a holier-than-thou attitude on politics in general, will quietly welcome any embarrassment the eager Republican senators can cause him.

Two Walker appointees are already considered in deep trouble — with confirmation doubtful, if not exceedingly unlikely.

They are Dr. David Fogel, director of corrections, and Anthony Dean of Naperville, conservation director.

As they say at the Statehouse, "box seats are already gone" for the Fogel hearings. All the elements for controversy and drama are there.

Fogel comes to Illinois after a stormy career as head of state penal institutions in Minnesota. The debate continues there as well as here as to whether he left voluntarily or was "run out of the state" by police and other law enforcement conformists.

Fogel introduced a number of far-reaching reforms into the Minnesota prisons, and police groups claim the to lax discipline in the prisons and making the work of guards and policemen in general much more difficult.

Fogel's supporters contend his methods are those of the future and will lead to smaller prison populations and reduced crime.

Illinois senators are certain to question Fogel intensively about his views.

There already is the feeling that Walker's appointee is against the trend of public opinion, which wants a stricter line on law enforcement and wants less rather than more permissiveness, especially in the prisons.

Walker's announcement of Fogel's appointment was matched with news wire-photos showing him bearded, in prison garb and posing on what seemed the inside of the bars. Statehouse was inevitably have tagged him "Fearless Fogel."

Also heading for a rough ride is Dean, 27, who was excused from military service because of conscientious objector standing.

He comes up for confirmation at a time when there has been a resurgence of traditional American patriotism with the release of fighting men who were held prisoners in Vietnam.

Republican senators, and some Democrats, too, are certain to ask: "Why should a man who refused to serve his national government abroad expect to work for his state government at home?"

The American Legion has already raised questions about Dean and there is undoubtedly much more to come.

37,000 Acres of Strip-Mine Land Unused

By JOAN MURARO
Copley News Service

Springfield—More than 100,000 acres of Illinois land were marred by strip mining prior to the first effective reclamation law.

More than 37,000 of those acres still lie unused today, and seven counties in Illinois each have more than 1,000 acres of these used and abandoned tracts within their boundaries.

The desolate facts on "orphaned" strip mine lands are revealed in a brand new study, just completed by a research team from Southern Illinois University and processed through the computer at Argonne National Laboratory.

The study, which took two years to complete and represents a total "on foot" investigation at each site, was requested by the Institute for Environmental Quality.

Among other things, the compiled data shows that a total of 108,722 acres in the state was mined or disturbed by surface mining prior to 1962, with 37,794 acres of this land still lying as it was left at the end of mining operations. In all, 17 counties had more than 1,000 acres each stripped, and seven—Fulton, Grundy, Knox, Perry, Saline, St. Clair and Williamson—each had more than 5,000 acres stripped. Some of the 17 had at least part of their acreage returned to some sort of use, though Fulton, Jackson, Knox, Perry, Randolph, Saline, St. Clair, Vermilion and Williamson still have more than 1,000 acres each of unused, unreclaimed strip mine land.

Legislation to begin reclamation of such lands was introduced into the last session of the Illinois Legislature but failed to pass.

Michael Schneiderman, director of the institute, said copies of the report will be distributed to members of the General Assembly and other appropriate agencies of government, adding that the data bank from which it was produced will be available to any of these for further analysis.

None of the land included, county by county and statewide, was mined or disturbed after 1962, since from that time on, strip mining in the state has been subject to varying requirements for reclamation, and under strict new regulations, no current strip mining can ever be begun until plans for reclamation have been detailed and approved, and a permit obtained, under bond.

The institute's study shows that a total of 409 miles of haulage roads remain. Fertility in different previously mined regions varies widely, it appears, with most found to have "moderately high" fertility (31,599 acres), with 21,784 acres rated "very high" and 9,966 rated "low."

In addition to the 37,794 acres standing idle, a scant 887 more are still used in mine related activities now, while 34,403 are in farm related activities and 25,888 being used for recreation. This includes some areas, now flooded, used for boating and water activities, where the degree of acidity is not too high, Schneiderman said.

There are another 4,717 acres in use for residential-industrial purposes, 1,131 in timber, while 243 acres are now part of highways, and 1,170 acres are used for waste disposal. A big 1,087-acre chunk is in "other" use, the report found.

In many places, not only is the site unused, it still has less than 25% ground cover after 10 or more years. There are 9,672 acres of such land in the state, the survey found.

Expansion of Nameoki Township Hall is Urged

A suggestion that Nameoki Township expand its town hall to provide room for a circuit court courtroom, for general assistance workers and for the assessor and collector, has been made to the Town Board of Auditors by Louis Whitsell, township supervisor.

Whitsell has asked that the board, now preparing a budget for the 1973-74 fiscal year, study the possibility of including funds for expansion of the building in the budget.

He said that Willard "Butch" Portell, clerk of the circuit court, has indicated if a courtroom is added to the town hall, the court would hold regular court sessions in the township. The court also will pay rent for the space, he added.

Renovations will be generated if room is added for general assistance purposes as the state will pay for any space provided specifically for that purpose. Presently general assistance workers occupy a portion of the town hall which is not considered the sole domain of the general assistance program.

At the meeting, the auditors approved an anticipation warrant for $20,000 for general assistance purposes. Whitsell explained that the state will reimburse the money but borrowing is necessary before a reimbursement request can be submitted.

A letter from William Schooley, township attorney, was read in which he suggested the township meet with officials of the railroad using the crossing at Mockingbird Lane and ask them to install crossing lights or warnings.

The letter also outlined the need for the township will need to take to force installation of the signals in the event the railroad does not cooperate.

Schooley also returned a check for $85 to the township paid to him for legal work in a letter with the check, Schooley explained he is paid on an annual basis and additional payments for specific actions are not necessary.

Steel Firms Plan $1.5 Billion in 1973 Expansions

Domestic steel companies expect to invest $1,596,000 for new plant and equipment and modernization of existing facilities during 1973, according to American Iron and Steel Institute.

This would push their capital spending since 1969 to just under $2.3 billion.

The current year's anticipated capital outlay figure is 28% more than last year's spending for new plant and equipment. According to AISI, steel firms spent $1,246,000 on new facilities in 1972.

Much of the current and recent spending has gone for the installation of air and water quality control facilities, iron and steelmaking furnaces, strand (continuous) casting, high-speed finishing units, and plants for upgrading the quality of iron ore.

State Slashes Staff Of Information Service

Personnel layoffs and resignations from the Illinois Information Service have reduced the number of staff members from a peak of 64 in October 1972 to the present total of 36.

At the same time, the IIS payroll has been reduced by $33,744 per month to the current level of $30,945 per month, or an annual savings of $275,640.

The IIS was allotted $332,000 for personal services during the current fiscal year; as of Jan. 31, there was only $85,438 remaining in the fund for use during the rest of the period.

James Dunn, acting director of the service, said:

"The money that should have lasted the rest of the year is just about gone. In addition to accepting the resignations, it was necessary to lay off 13 persons, because it would be impossible to meet the payroll at the present level."

"Supervisors and other responsible officials in the IIS did not exercise their responsibility to the employees or to the taxpayers."

To Mark 500th Year Of Noted Astronomer

The physics department at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will celebrate the 500th anniversary of the medieval astronomer Nicolaus Copernicus at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Religious Center.

Copernicus, a Polish astronomer promulgated the now accepted theory that the earth and the planets move about the sun.

"Before the Copernican theory, people believed that the earth was fixed and immovable at the center of the universe and that the sun, the planets and the stars revolved about the earth."

Copernicus' great achievement was to declare the theory that the sun is the center of the universe and that the earth is not fixed but spins much like a top as it revolves about the sun. Tom Baldwin, chairman of the physics department, said.

The public is invited to the celebration, which will include music and pageantry, followed by the serving of what Baldwin describes as "celestial cake and cosmic punch."

Weather permitting, those attending will be able to look at the sun through one of the physics department's amateur telescopes.

State Panel May Revise 'Rules of Road' Booklet

Copley News Service

Springfield—Each year more and more persons have been taking the Illinois test for a driver's license and reports indicate that the written portion of the test is somewhat confusing.

So Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett has decided to form a task force to look into the possibility of rewriting the "Rules of the Road." The panel of 10 high school teachers who are involved with drivers education will look at the booklet.

The written test now taken by a person who is seeking or renewing a drivers license is based on the material in the "Rules of the Road."

The panel was formed with the cooperation of the Illinois Education Association.

Members of the task force include: Robert O. Brown, St. Charles High School; Ray Gible, Sterling High School; Robert J. Lee, Sterling High School; Duane Peterson, Joliet Township High School; James Foster, Farmer City-Maxfield High School; Joe Morin, Bloomington High School; Stan Petty, Bloomington High School; Robert Odum, Carbonate Community High School; Matthew Lamb, Richards High School; Palos Heights; and Pat Pentel, O'Fallon High School.

Driving officials for quite sometime has been looking at the possibility of changing the "Rules of the Road" booklet.

Some officials have felt that the present booklet contains a great deal of information that is not related to the written test. They do agree that much of the information in the booklet is helpful to the driver but at times tends to be confusing to the person taking the test.

When the present booklet was designed it was hoped that the driver might carry it in the automobile and perhaps refer to it from time to time. However, it is now found that this is not the case. There is a possibility that the information not needed for the test may be carried in a separate booklet.

So probably by the end of the year Illinois motorists may be reading a new booklet when it comes test time.

Howlett to Phase Out State-Owned Greenhouse

Michael J. Howlett, Secretary of State, has announced plans to phase out the state-owned greenhouse which supplies flowers and plants for the Springfield Capitol complex.

The greenhouse has operated at an annual cost of almost $40,000, according to Howlett. If it was to be maintained, it would also require substantial rehabilitation costs.

The greenhouse produced about 13,000 plants each year for use in and around the state capitol. Another 1,600 Christmas poinsettias and Easter lilies have been distributed annually to hospitals, orphanages, old peoples homes, public officials and friends, as gifts of the secretary of state.

"We do not consider this to be a proper function of state government; and it has been terminated," Howlett said. "In the future, flowers will be purchased only for landscaping purposes. And our studies show that these can be bought from private industry at about one-third the cost we are now paying."

Howlett, who took office on Jan. 8, said that his predecessor, John W. Lewis, pointed the greenhouse out as one service of the secretary's office which should be studied.

"Thomas Owens, a former employee of the secretary of state and a landscaper, worked with our transition committee in this study," according to Howlett. "And it was his recommendation that the greenhouse operation be phased out."

"We are phasing it out rather than closing it down immediately," Howlett said, "because we don't want to lose the money already invested in this spring's flowers. No new seeds will be planted though; and all operations should cease no later than June 30.

The greenhouse has been under the secretary of state's buildings and grounds division, which will continue to be responsible for the capitol grounds and landscape.

Land Use Plan is Topic of Meeting

19th and DELMAR AVE.,

OPEN MONDAY THRU SATURDAY 9:30 A.M. - 9:30 P.M.

MRS. STEPHEN P. NONN, the former Miss Jeanine Marie Unfried, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Unfried, 2320 Benton St. She was married Saturday afternoon at St. Joseph Roman Catholic Church.

Nonn-Unfried Nuptials At St. Joseph's Church

St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church was the scene of the afternoon wedding on Saturday of Miss Jeanine Marie Unfried, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Unfried, 2320 Benton St., and Stephen Paul Nonn, son of Mrs. Marian Nonn, 1704 Delmar Ave., and the late Robert Nonn.

The Rev. Martin Mangano performed the double ring ceremony at 2 o'clock before an altar adorned with arrangements of carnations and greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a pure white satin-crepe gown fashioned with an Empire bodice accented with motifs of re-embroidered Alencon lace appliques, featuring an open neckline and long tapered sleeves enhanced with matching lace motifs.

Lavish Alencon lace medallions were placed at random on the straight skirt that ended in a detachable full sweep train.

A profile of orange blossoms and lily of the valley secured a short bouffant veil of bridal illusion and she carried a bouquet of white carnations, white and pink roses and baby breath.

Mrs. Barbara Unfried, a sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She was gowned in a maroon velvet dress trimmed with a delicate pink veil and floral brooch.

Bridesmaids, Misses Mary Margaret Nonn, a cousin of the groom, Carol Pitchford, Virginia Ritchie and Mrs. Marlene Nonn, a sister-in-law of the groom, and junior bridesmaids, Elizabeth Unfried, sister of the bride, and Denise Nonn, a niece of the groom, wore identical gowns.

They were designed with pink crepe blouses and maroon velvet skirts. Each attendant held an arrangement of pink carnations, intermingled with tufts of maroon velvet.

The little flower girl, Kathy

Nonn, the groom's cousin, was dressed in a frock similar in design to the adult attendants' gowns and she carried a miniature bouquet of pink carnations.

Keith Unfried, a nephew of the bride, was the ringbearer. The bridegroom chose his brother, Craig Nonn, to serve as best man.

Groomsmen included Russell Nonn and Raymond Miller, both cousins of the groom, Michael Unfried, the bride's brother, Ronald Zimmerman and Daniel Suich. Seating the guests were Lawrence Unfried, the bride's brother and Dale Culp.

Mrs. Unfried, mother of the bride, wore a pale blue late-season dress and coat ensemble. The groom's mother, Mrs. Nonn, selected an orchid crepe and chiffon dress.

A reception was held at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, following the ceremony.

Mrs. Nonn entertained members of the wedding party at a rehearsal dinner held in her home.

Both young people graduated from Granite City High School. The former Miss Unfried is employed as a secretary at the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Mr. Nonn attended Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville for one year. He will graduate in May from Belleville Area Junior College.

After a wedding trip to the Ozarks, the newly-married couple will reside in Granite City.

Minerva Club Hears Students

The Minerva Reading Club of Madison was entertained by Alicia Hendrickson and Sharon McBride at a meeting held last week in the home of Mrs. Helen Purkayle, 1824 Second St., Madison.

Miss Hendrickson reported on a youth music camp she attended last summer at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. She also sang a solo and played the piano and French horn, accompanied by Mrs. McBride.

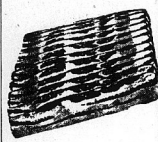

Mrs. Clova Taylor described two books, entitled "Famous Composers" and "Drake's Annotated Reference Bible," with members agreeing to purchase both volumes in memory of memory of Mrs. Anne Mae Echols and Mrs. Sadie Crawford.

The Schermer Bulletin . . .

We may have to start calling this column "Believe It or Not." What with all the comments about the $6.49 steaks we mentioned last week we started doubting it ourselves. But it was true—$6.49 per pound for beef steaks. Speaking of meat we are currently out of the Coral Cornish hens everyone has been raving about, but our supplier promises us that more will be available next week. For those of you who missed this great buy these birds weigh 17 ounces and up and sell for 39 cents each—that's EACH not per pound. Many customers commented on the amazing amount of meat on one of these birds. They are really a buy.

We do have one good meat buy this week. That is the Checkerboard Farms sliced Turkey and Gravy. This is a two pound package and according to the federal government labeling regulations there is more turkey and gravy in this package. (Otherwise it would have to be called Gravy and sliced Turkey). The regular price is $1.89 (cheap enough), but this week you can redeem the coupon in this ad and save 40 cents. Don't miss this one. Also two new items in our non-food department. First is assorted stainless steel flatware. Everyone loses tableware from time to time. The kids play with it and lose it or you drop it down the garbage disposal. Well now you can replace your stock without buying a whole new set. We have loose pieces of tableware which sell six pieces for just one dollar. Try making this buy at Famous Barr.

Finally, Schermer's is back in the pants business. We have some irregular double knit slacks selling from $4.49 to $5.99. These are all slacks with some slight imperfection some more noticeable than others but if these pants were perfect they would sell for as high as $25.00. "Nuff said, you will recognize the value here when you see the articles.

Cruse-Patterson Engagement Told

The engagement of Miss Kathleen Patterson and Mark Cruse, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cruse, 2900 Myrtle Ave., is being disclosed this week by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Patterson, 3266 Franklin Ave.

Miss Patterson and her fiancé are both graduates of Granite City High School.

The bride-to-be is attending Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where she is majoring in Education. The prospective groom is employed at Granite City Steel Co.

Plans are being completed by the betrothed couple for a wedding in November.

Named to Dean's List

Janice Seymour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Seymour, 3404 Lydia Lane, has been named to the dean's list for the first semester at MacMurray College in Jacksonville. She has completed requirements for a bachelor of arts degree in elementary education.

MISS KATHLEEN PATTERSON, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Patterson, 3266 Franklin Ave., are announcing her engagement to Mark Cruse. They will be married in November.

MR. AND MRS. PATRICK M. POWELL, who were united in marriage at Tri-City Park Tabernacle Assembly of God Church. She is the former Miss Donna Rae Jones, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe William Jones, 1206 Meridian Ave.

Miss Donna Rae Jones, Patrick M. Powell Wed

Large bouquets of white gladioli and mums accented with red hearts were placed at either side of a latticed arch, decorated with greenery, to create the setting for the evening wedding of Miss Donna Rae Jones and Patrick M. Powell on Feb. 10 at Tri-City Park Tabernacle Assembly of God Church.

The sanctuary was illuminated with burning tapers in spiral candelabra for the double ring ceremony, performed at 6 o'clock by the Rev. John Polizzi, assisted by the Rev. Robert D. Shaw of Pacific, Mo., formerly of Granite City. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Joe William Jones, 1206 Meridian Ave. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Powell, Rural Route One, Pittsfield, Ill.

Mrs. Roberta Swaim, organist, accompanied the Rev. Larry Swaim, who sang "Your Tender Love," "All My Life" and "Submission." A second soloist, Miss Janice James, sang the "Theme from Love Story" and "The Wedding Song."

Escorted down the white carpeted aisle and given in marriage by her father, the former Miss Jones wore an ivory Chantilly point de gaze lace gown made in a princess silhouette design.

Satin ribbon edged with Guipure lace fashioned the mandarin neckline, cuffed the long fitted sleeves and created a design down the front of the gown, centered with satin buttons.

The full chapel-length train was enhanced with natural scallops of Chantilly lace. She wore a profile headpiece of imported orange blossoms to secure a long veil that extended into a full sweep. She carried a cascade of red Sweetheart roses and white Eleanore roses and tiny of the valley, interspersed with white pearl beads and ivory.

Mrs. Fred Epperson was matron of honor. Mrs. Charlotte Johnson, Miss Sharon Borth and Miss Diane Davis were bridesmaids and Miss Marri Ann Smelser served as junior maid.

They were gowned alike in dresses fashioned with ruby velvet Empire bodices, featuring scoop necklines and long fitted sleeves.

The very full skirts were in pink chiffon, defined at the high-rise waistline and hem with matching colored lace, masked with ruby velvet ribbon. Each attendant held a burgundy muff, attached at the front with a long stemmed pink rose and matching velvet ribbon.

Kathryn Lea Burns, the flower girl, was dressed in a full-length frock identical in style to the adult attendants' gowns. She carried a white basket filled with rose petals and festooned with white gladioli.

Seating the guests were Fred Epperson, the Rev. Larry Hayes, Roger Hall and Ken Capps.

Mrs. Jones chose for her daughter's wedding, a formal-length gown of aqua chiffon designed in Grecian style. The Empire bodice was made with a round neckline and long bishop sleeves and a large jeweled buckle accented the waistline.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Powell, was attired in an aqua coat-dress ensemble. The frock featured a chiffon Empire bodice with a high neckline and long sleeves cuffed in brocade, matching the A-line skirt, worn with a sleeveless coat of floral print brocade.

Guests were received by the newly married couple at a reception given in the church fellowship hall after the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Powell, parents of the groom, were hosts at a rehearsal dinner at the Round Table Restaurant in Collinsville.

A graduate of Madison High School, the bride attended Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville from 1967 to 1970.

She was employed at Illinois Electric Works, Inc., East St. Louis, prior to her marriage.

Mr. Powell graduated from Pittsfield (Ill.) High School and Canton Community College, Canton, Ill. He is a member of Phi Mu Tau Fraternity.

After a wedding trip to Daytona Beach, Fla., the couple will reside in Pittsfield.

Legion Auxiliary Plans Projects

Mrs. Bonnie Jacob, president of Tri-City American Legion Auxiliary Unit 113, announced that a county meeting will take place Wednesday in Alton, which she and Mrs. Katie Barks will attend as delegates.

The announcement was made at a business meeting of the local unit held last week at the Legion Home on State Street. It was reported the same two delegates also attended the auxiliary's Fifth Division conference Sunday at DuQuoin (Ill.) Post 647.

Mrs. Sharon Morris, rehabilitation chairman, described plans for a party to entertain veterans at Alton State Hospital, and a new member, Mrs. Eloise Ebertson, was introduced and welcomed.

Unit members also voted to write to their congressmen and other representatives seeking to change the holidays such as Lincoln and Washington's birthdays and also Veterans' Day, back to the original dates.

Mrs. Dolores Weiss, chaplain, informed the group that a book of prayers is being compiled from individual members who submit an original prayer or one they have opted from other sources. The prayers will be forwarded to the auxiliary's state office and entered in an all-state contest.

A contribution was made to parents of a special education group.

During the social hour prizes were won by Mesdames Georgina Graham, Mildred Reese, Eloise Ebertson, Esther Harris, Mable Wente and Alma Klase.

MRS. MARVIS LEE HUNTER, whose wedding took place at St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church in Jerseyville, Ill. She is the former Elizabeth Anne Dierking, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Dierking of Grafton, Ill.

Hunter-Dierking Wedding At Jerseyville Church

Miss Elizabeth Anne Dierking and Marvis Lee Hunter exchanged wedding vows Feb. 10 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at St. Francis Xavier Church in Jerseyville, with the Rev. Robert T. Shea officiating.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Dierking, Rural Route One, Grafton, Ill. The groom is a son of Harry Hunter, 2332 Iowa St., and the late Mrs. Hunter.

For her wedding, the former Miss Dierking, chose a white nylon organza gown designed with an Empire bodice. A dainty lace daisy trim edged the stand-up neckline and enhanced the bodice and sheer lantern sleeves.

The slightly full skirt, terminating at the hemline with a pleated flounce, was accented with matching lace motifs. A forward headpiece created of daisy-shaped petals held in place a shoulder-length bouffant veil, and she carried a cascade of white carnations.

Mrs. Mary Hildred, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length dress of aqua polyester double knit made with chiffon sleeves. The stand-up collar and cuffs were edged in metallic silver tulle, and she held an arrangement of white mums.

The groom chose John Dierking, the bride's brother, as his best man. Ushers were Bob Ray and Cliff Hand.

A reception and dance was held at the VFW Hall in Jerseyville immediately following the service.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Grafton.

The former Miss Dierking is a graduate of Jerseyville Community High School and works at Owens-Illinois Glassworks. Mr. Hunter was graduated from Granite City High School and is employed by AT&T as an electronics technician.

Mrs. Ellen Wilson Wins Queen Title

Mrs. Ellen Wilson, president of the Granite City Beta Sigma Phi Sorority City Council and president of her own Pi Eta Chapter, was named "Queen of the Valentine Ball," sponsored by the sorority and held last week at Lewis and Clark Restaurant, East Alton.

Princesses, who served in the queen's court, were Mrs. Sharon Rush of Theta Theta Chapter, Mrs. Delores Dorch of Xi Epsilon Chi Chapter, Mrs. Sandy Cook of Nu Zeta Chapter and Miss Ivey Humphrey of Theta Iota Chapter.

Nelson Hagauer was master-of-ceremonies and also served as a judge, together with Dr. John Lee, mayor of Venice and Mayor Mike Sasyk of Madison.

Other special guests were Mrs. Nelson Hagauer, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schuler, Mr. and Mrs. John Macrae.

Mrs. Wilson was presented with a bouquet of roses and a tiara by Mrs. Imogene Forrest and each princess received a corsage and charm.

After dinner and selection of the queen, dancing was enjoyed by approximately 150 persons. Music was furnished by Art Leavelle's band.

Proceeds from the dance will be contributed to the local Heart Fund drive. Total amount of the sorority's donation will be announced at the Beta Sigma Phi City Council's March 12 meeting in the home of Mrs. Sharon Rush.

At that time, final tabulation of ticket receipts and expenses will be presented to chapter delegates, Mrs. Wilson said.

Former Tokyo Resident to Speak

Mrs. Tillman Lindsey, the former Miss Suzuki Hoshino of Tokyo, Japan, will be guest speaker at the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at Charlie's Restaurant.

Theme of the February program is "World Affairs," according to Mrs. Genevieve Brady, dinner chairman, who is accepting reservations from club members through this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey and their 9-month-old daughter now reside at 2637 Westside St. She accompanied her husband, Tillman, to the United States in 1971.

The BPW Club's guest speaker is one of 10 children of Mr. and Mrs. Messao Hoshino of Tokyo. She was graduated from Tokyo Metropolitan Hachioji High School in 1968.

Following her talk, a short business meeting will be conducted by Mrs. Pauline Weir, BPW president, during which current programs of the club will be reviewed.

Gardenaires to Oppose River Dam

Mrs. Charles Kohl and Mrs. Jerry Arbeiter served as co-hostesses at a dessert luncheon for the Gardenaires Garden Club for its regular meeting last week. Seven members answered roll call with pertinent facts about the herb "tarragon," the horticulture growing project of the club the past year.

Mrs. C. E. Eads, president, conducted the business session, at which time it was decided that members will express their opposition to construction of the Corps of Engineers dam on the Sangamon River, which could result in the flooding of large portions of Alton Park. The protest will be sent to Governor Daniel Walker, who presently is reviewing the project.

Mrs. Earl Glenn reported on the current display of "Propagation: Seed Starting Indoors" at the Mini-Garden Information Center at the Granite City Public Library and on requests for displays of the club's work both at the District V annual meeting in Edwardsville on March 22 and at the state annual meeting, set April 15-17, at the LaSalle Hotel, Chicago.

"Bog or Water-Loving Plants" was the program presented by Mrs. Glenn, and an exhibit and exchange of water-lily starts of plants for spring garden planting followed.

Others attending the meeting were Mrs. Mary Kristian, Mrs.

William Long and Mrs. Alex Tarpoil, who invited the Gardenaires to meet March 14 at her home, 1609 Clark Ave., for its next business session.

Also present were Mesdames Jessie Sayers, Viola Thomsen, Lucille Russell, Frances Reid and Marian Whitaker.

The Ladies Coterie met Thursday at the First United Presbyterian Church, with Mrs. Clarence Boettiger serving as the February hostess.

Program chairman, Mrs. David John, introduced Mrs. John Denney, who reviewed the book "Abigail Adams" by Janet Whitney.

Mrs. Ray Horn, president, presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Mark Pickett gave the club collect and Mrs. George Filloff led the group in the pledge of allegiance.

Members joined in a song, directed by Mrs. E. J. Griffith, and agreed to provide a scholarship for a student in the speech department at Granite City High School.

Attending the monthly gathering were 17 members, who joined with Mrs. James Fox in the reciting the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The March 1 meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Fred Haug, 2419 Delmar Ave., when a silent auction is planned.

Club to Plant Shrubbery at New School

Shrubbery will be planted in the inner court at the new Granite City High School/North by the Cloverview Garden Club. It was announced last week by Mrs. Kenneth Brokaw, club president.

The planting program will be undertaken as the 1973 civic project of the gardening group, Mrs. Brokaw said.

Mrs. John Jenkins, 2442 Lynch Ave., was hostess to the club last week, serving a noon luncheon at tables decorated in a Valentine theme. Mrs. Joseph Ochao read the club collect.

Mrs. John Lentz, chairman of an installation party, reported the event will be held March 13. Those taking office will be Mrs. William Bradley, president; Mrs. Richard Branding, vice-president; Mrs. Darie DeRemo, secretary; Mrs. George Knapp, treasurer and Mrs. Jenkins, historian.

Donations were authorized to Lincoln Memorial Gardens, Springfield, which is supported by the Illinois Garden Clubs, and to the Permanent Home Fund at the National Federation Home, St. Louis, in recognition of a new member.

Two books on flower arranging were added to the club's library.

Mrs. B. C. O'Neill, who is serving on the District V nominating committee, will meet with other members today at the home of Mrs. H. G. Heberer of Mascoutah, to select a slate of district officers. It was reported. The group will be installed at the annual meeting of District V, set March 22, with the Edwardsville club as host.

The president read a letter from State Scholarship Chairman, Mrs. W. C. Delp, requesting support for the student fund to the University of Illinois, and Mrs. Knapp gave a talk on the Cardinal, or red bird, the subject of an ornithology program.

Mrs. Lou Hemming, a sister of Mrs. Jenkins, was a guest. Other members present included Mrs. Leo Roman, Mrs. Fred Orr, and Mrs. Robert McCauley. Mrs. Deremo invited the club to meet in her home, 3201 Erin Drive, April 10.

Dictation by Planners on County Land Use Would Destroy Future of Quad-City Area as a Viable Population Center

An overtone of arrogant superiority is part of the message being received from Chief Planner Ronald Darden of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission.

He not only seeks to advise the Madison County government on land use planning but also to speak for that government. When officials disagree with his excesses, he attempts to bludgeon them into compliance with appeals to public opinion.

The issue is the wording to be adopted by the Madison County Board this spring in outlining policies governing the way land within the county can be utilized.

The issue is not whether obviously unsuitable sites or ponding areas are to be developed. We have heard no one this winter proposing such activity. But conjuring up illusions of such development apparently is a convenient device used by Darden and others to provide targets for their rhetoric.

Now is the issue a vague, little known, unimportant area known as the "flood plains" or "American Bottoms." What is primarily being discussed, regardless of what the terminology may be, is the Quad-City area. The area west of Route 111, as well as that east of Route 111, is under attack.

Darden was the No. 2 man, the project planner, in the preparation of an inappropriate December 1969 "Madison County plan" which the County Board wisely did not accept.

The non-acceptance has been ignored by certain environmentalists and Missourians interested in making the Quad-City area's survival as difficult as possible. They have cited the 1969 plan in deliberations of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, which has direct contacts with the U.S. Housing and Urban Development Department regional staff.

The No. 1 author, Martin Braeske, project coordinator, who no longer with SIMAP, urged adherence to the 1969 plan in public appearances during the past year. Darden is in charge of the proposed 1973 plan.

Since SIMAP Executive Director Theodore Mikesell assigned Braeske once and Darden twice to the county plan task, he shares much of the responsibility.

Examples of Darden's attitude are some of his remarks Thursday evening at a meeting where the County Plan Commission decided to remove some of the prohibitions on development in the previously unreviewed preliminary draft.

Repeatedly setting up phantom targets to knock over, Darden said it is "unrealistic to have 100% growth throughout the county. It is the obligation of county government to protect residents who buy homes."

"To allow development of the American Bottoms before hillside runoff studies are done might pre-empt impoundment areas. Decisions are going to have to be reached on patterns of development in Madison County. The purpose of this plan is to control development. It doesn't make sense to allow development everywhere."

"The federal government requires that land use allocations be based on population projections. This effectively limits the number of acres for development. It would be questionable to allow development there until the Army Corps of Engineers completes its mapping and study of drainage and its mapping and study of drainage and be held in abeyance."

The way Darden is explaining it to the media is that members of the County Plan Commission and County Board appear to be villains intent on harming the public. Headlines after Thursday's meeting read, "No iron-clad words wanted," "Land use plan changed to allow any development" and "County plan ignores professional planners' advice on American Bottoms."

SIMAP apparently wants to make sure that elected Madison County officials take the step the officials declined to take three years ago—labeling all below-the-hill territory west to the Mississippi River as urban, rural or residential. Such an official ban on construction—combined with the efforts of floodplain development foes here and at the East-West Gateway Commission and the HUD regional headquarters—could shut down non-hazardous as well as hazardous development and choke off any growth.

Such a stand would doom any community to the kind of downward spiral that has afflicted East St. Louis—a diminishing tax base which scares off residents and businesses, which in turn further shrinks the tax base, causing still more migration and decay.

Is this the kind of planning and leadership that should be expected from the Southwestern Area Planning Commission—cosmetic surgery as artistic that its patient dies?

PAST MAYOR-COUNCIL CLASHES ARE CITED

To the Editor:

I note with great interest the flashing yellow "caution" light atop the mayor's campaign headquarters. This caution light is quite pertinent to the voting for mayor in the coming city election.

When you have a mayor who is a candidate for re-election, with has done nothing but a great deal of "caution" is needed.

Readers, give the city and yourself a breath of new life by electing Paul Schuler to the job of mayor of Granite City.

More than 40,000 volunteers participated in the experiment which showed that men were able to stand pain better than women, young people better than old, and Caucasians better than Orientals.

The problem now is to determine if there are differences between pain tolerance and pain sensitivity. For years, we have been living under an interesting set of priorities in the use of our

U. S. Influence May Be Able to Foster Mideast Peace

The recent visit of King Hussein of Jordan to the United States to discuss state affairs with President Nixon underlines the pulsing hope of the world that 1973 also will be the Year of the Middle East.

Not the least of the harbingers of hope is King Hussein himself, who will be followed to the United States by Israeli Premier Golda Meir on March 1.

In recent weeks, the king has reopened communications with his Arab neighbors — communications that were severed when Hussein squashed guerrillas operating from Jordan in 1970-71.

Hussein also has proposed a realistic compromise that would permit a Jordanian presence in the Christian and Moslem sections of Jerusalem.

Deputy Premier Yigal Allon of Israel has hinted that some such compromise could be possible.

It was a major effort at consolidation by both nations.

Nor is that all. Soviet strongman Leonid Brezhnev, for example, also has seen great hope of a Mideast settlement this year.

More importantly, he has withdrawn half of the Soviet fleet from the Mediterranean.

In much the same spirit, U.S. Secretary of State William Rogers again has laid on the table a plan to reopen the Suez Canal as the first step toward a broader agreement.

U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim offers the services of international offices.

Even "high sources" in Cairo and the Daily Star in Beirut are pleading with the United States to intervene diplomatically to give peace efforts in the Middle East a stimulus.

These are hopeful signs — a recognition that the United States is one of the few honest brokers in that ancient quarrel with leadership that is required to give negotiations substance. The combatants as well as others hope that we can exert our influence now that the Vietnam War is behind us.

We have a self-interest in doing so.

Like it or not, the United States is facing the grim fact that we, along with many other nations, are going to become increasingly dependent on the Arab oil fields to meet our future energy needs.

As we do, the Arabs will accumulate millions of American dollars. Some estimates are that they will have $1 trillion in the bank by 1980.

It is money that can be spent for good or for evil.

The United States is a powerful nation with many options, and neither of these facts may constitute a crisis.

However, they are a problem — one that will grow with each month that the confrontation continues in the Middle East.

Return of Prisoners an Occasion for Prayer and Joy

To citizens throughout the United States, the return of the first group of prisoners of war to U. S. control was an occasion for prayer and joy.

No American could remain unmoved when Capt. James H. Donovan first set foot on Clark Air Base in the Philippines.

His simple words, "God Bless America," had to remind us that these prisoners are Americans from the same farms, cities and homes as the rest of us.

The anguish that they have endured is our anguish. Their joys are ours. And their well-being is our paramount concern.

If the truth were to be told, the return of the prisoners also must have provided our officials with a great deal of relief and self-satisfaction.

It is, after all, the first physical contact between the helpless and often sick Americans as propaganda chess pieces, deliberately ignored a century of international laws and traditions relating to humane treatment of captives, and even intruded the issue into American politics during a presidential campaign.

Second, we should ponder our attitude toward the military in general—not only toward the unfortunate prisoners but to the other men who served so steadfastly in Vietnam. It certainly leaves a lot to be desired.

No major world power can permit a puny nation to treat its nationals with savage impunity without a loss in respect and effectiveness, whatever its economic and military might.

Nor can any superpower worthy of the name—which the United States certainly is—remain secure if it treats the men whom it calls to serve it as anything other than the first-class citizens which they are.

During that period the enemy used the helpless and often sick Americans as propaganda chess pieces,

'Moral Obligation' of U. S. Is Not To Indochina But to World Peace

A figure of $7½ billion as the cost of Indochina reconstruction—that the Vietnam war has come to an end—will not be Uncle Sam's tab alone, the Press-Record's Washington bureau has advised us.

In an interview at the Capitol, Senator Charles H. McNamara, Illinois Republican, related that the topic could become "very sensitive" in Congress.

But he added, he interprets the admittedly "clouded issue" as not calling for American financial participation of that size.

The amount of $7½ billion was mentioned by President Nixon a year ago.

In his Indochina peace plan of Jan. 25, 1972, the President also talked of aid, disclosing that private talks had been held with Hanoi, North Vietnam, on July 26, 1971.

Holding the private offer open, Mr. Nixon said, "We remain prepared to undertake a major reconstruction program throughout Indochina, including North Vietnam, to help all these people recover from the ravages of a generation of war."

Henry A. Kissinger, the President's national security adviser, has since said that the Paris peace agreement must be "well advanced" before the issue of reconstruction can be discussed.

He has also labeled the $7.5 billion, for four countries spread over five years with perhaps $2.5 billion to North Vietnam, as no longer "current."

The question of reconstruction is uncertain, to say the least, although Administration spokesmen apparently have been trying to make it clear that the President is not suggesting that this nation pick up the whole bill.

This is Percy's reading of the White House signals as well. North Vietnam, he said, if the United States has a "moral obligation" to reconstruct Indochina.

"We have a moral obligation to try to achieve peace in the world. It is in our national interest."

"If we see that by working in cooperation with other developed nations of the world we can help in the economic reconstruction of a war-devastated area and enable those people to stand on their own feet, then it's in our national interest to do this," Sen. Percy said.

"Certainly, if it would help preserve the peace and if it would be an inducement to our adversaries to observe strictly the spirit and letter of the Paris agreement, and if it is a political settlement of the problem of Indochina, then I think this is again in our own national interest."

"But we have no responsibility to do anything other than what is best for our own national interest."

"I think it is time we begin looking to our national interest and not just doing, as was characterized by high officials, the most unselfish thing any nation has ever undertaken," this venerable and tragic war in Southeast Asia."

Percy said he could see no reason for American support of a "large-scale military program in South Vietnam." Except for replacement of equipment on a "one-for-one" basis, that is prohibited, any way.

"But I would hope emphasis would be placed on the economic reconstruction of the area so that it, similar to other countries in Southeast Asia, could begin standing on its own two feet and rely less and less on American assistance.

"I think we've done enough. In fact, we've done more than enough for South Vietnam," in the senator's opinion.

Reminded of suggestions that other nations should pick up part of President Nixon's $7.5 billion figure, Percy was asked, "What if they don't want to?"

"Then the program is going to be substantially limited," he said. "The pledge that the President made was that there would be a $7.5 billion reconstruction fund. I assume he's not talking about that coming from the United States."

"I assume that he's talking about that coming from the whole world, all the developed nations and certainly through the World Bank, Asian Development Bank and other such organizations as well as bilateral assistance from Japan, Germany, the United Kingdom, France and the Soviet Union."

"Certainly, these countries mean that this is their national interest, and if they do not find it in their interest, then proportionately the obligations we have would be substantially reduced."

Percy made it clear he does not believe the reconstruction burden would fall on the United States, although he has "found it generally interpreted here in Washington that it was our obligation."

He emphasized how cloudy the issue has become, saying he has been in a search for clarity talked with Washington officials as well as five or six American ambassadors on his Southeast Asian trip.

"They had no real inkling of what the President had in mind," he said.

"So, I've publicly (in Asia) chosen to interpret his statement meaning that this is a multinational affair. I've not been contradicted on those statements."

That the issue of rebuilding war-torn Indochina while the U. S. has neglected domestic priorities will be heated on Capitol Hill is sharply perceived by the President.

In his Jan. 31 surprise White House news conference, he was asked for a dollar figure on Indochina rehabilitation.

"It is a matter that the members of Congress have raised with me," he said.

"I cannot give you that figure now, because it is a matter that has to be negotiated and it will be all part of one package," he said.

"But we must be discussed with the bipartisan leadership that is best for our country."

Mr. Nixon said, with talk of the powers of the Presidency aside, that he is "keenly aware" that Congress has to "believe" and "support" a reconstruction program in South Vietnam as "an investment in peace" if there is to be such a venture.

"And this is going to be one of the more difficult assignments I have had as President," Mr. Nixon added.

"But I think we can make it if Congress sees what the stakes are."

STILL UNRESOLVED ISSUE was the subject of this gathering. The photograph was taken at the instant two new levee and sanitary districts came into being through signing of a state law by Illinois Governor Richard B. Ogilvie prior to the end of his term. Actual operation of the Madison and St. Clair districts has been delayed by order of a St. Clair County circuit judge. Seated, left to right, are

2 Named to Mental Health Unit; Agent for Purchasing

Reappointment of Edwin Reiske and James DeRuntz, both of Granite City, to four-year terms as members of the Madison County (708) Mental Health Board was approved by the Madison County Board last week after an attempt to delay action for a month was defeated.

James E. Greene, a member from East Alton, pointed out he had not received advance notice of the appointments and said he objected to one of the appointments. Dan Walker, former member of the 708 board, said the 708 board was to meet with the Madison County Board in Springfield on mental health; failure to approve either of the appointments would jeopardize the meeting, Gramlich said.

Wayne Bridgewater of Roxana, a County Board member and a member of the mental health board, defended a 708 member as being thorough, though at times controversial. The appointments were approved on a 25-3 roll call vote.

It was reported during the meeting that a Mental Health Board allocation to the Quad City Center for the month was $8,564. The board approved a resolution to be forwarded to U. S. Sen. Charles Percy asking his support and endorsement of continuance of the federal Emergency Employment Act program because of the current unemployment rate and return of servicemen.

The resolution was circulated among members for their signatures. In other business, the board: Employed the county's first central purchasing agent, James T. Hyndman, 59, of Alton, who formerly was purchasing agent for the Olin Corp., at a salary of $750 per month. Heard a report from Howard Kaseberg, chairman, that the County Zoning Board of Appeals will hold a special meeting at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the court house on a request for a special use permit to construct a new hospital on Route 159 between Edwardsville and Collinsville.

He said the zoning board wants to determine the need for the hospital and wants specific facts on sewage disposal. He said it will not be a public hearing. Approved a resolution to permit county employees who are unable to work through no reason of their own to retain seniority if they could obtain other county employment within a year. It was said that this would safeguard such benefits as salaries and vacations.

County Nursing Home by the Illinois Department of Public Health showed no exceptions to state standards.

The report was referred to the Grand Jury, which recently was critical because the home employs only one registered nurse on a 40-hour week basis. The jury felt a registered nurse should be on hand at all times.

Authorized advertisement of bids for bedding and linen for the nursing home and for a summer radio for the Civil Defense Department.

Approved purchase of a half-ton truck with a 1969 trade-in for the rabies control department from a Highland agency for $1,658.

Approved a special use permit to Bernice Baucum to place a mobile home in an R-4 residential district in Nameoki Township for a period not to exceed five years.

Received a liquor commission report showing that 161 liquor licenses were issued during 1972 and that fees of $34,365 were turned over to the county treasury for the county revenue fund.

Approved payrolls and claims for January totaling $736,960.

Farm Tours for City Dwellers Urged

Farm tours for city residents, to improve understanding between rural and urban dwellers, have been advocated by Michael J. Howlett, secretary of state.

Addressing the Illinois Farmers Union state convention in Springfield, Howlett said the importance of Illinois agriculture is poorly reflected by urban families because of lack of communications.

"City dwellers are concerned about crime, unrest, high taxes, educational problems, even their baseball, football and basketball teams," said Howlett. "They seldom think about our farmers who feed not only our state but our nation and even some foreign countries."

"They know nothing of the annual struggle with weeds, bugs and plant diseases or unexpected catastrophes such as the southern corn leaf blight of 1970 which threatened to wipe out the corn crop."

"Some are convinced farmers are subsidized completely by the government and do as little work as possible."

"The main that could mean the difference between good and bad crops for you could spoil a picnic for them."

"The farm tour idea, which has been tried in Springfield and Champaign, would be a helpful practice all over the state."

"Tours are arranged by chambers of commerce in cooperation with farmers. They are conducted on Sunday afternoons, so city families can observe and study different types of farm operations."

"City children love to see cows being milked. Watching the handling of hogs and cattle is as much fun for them as a trip to the zoo."

"Tours are arranged so farms visited are close together, route is marked. Maps of the tour and promotion materials are left in grocery bags at supermarkets and supplied to schools."

"The people of Illinois can be proud of our farmers. Our state is first in the nation in soybean production and second in corn."

"Anybody in Chicago's Loop spreads horseshit on his car, and anybody in the union, I'd like to know Illinois produces more horseshit than any other state in the union."

"There are fewer and fewer farms every year. The farm population is steadily dropping, but we remain the best-fed nation in the world."

Taxpayers Can Donate To Politics at No Cost

Taxpayers can contribute to the political party of their choice for the 1976 presidential campaign at no extra cost, Rep. Melvin Price has reminded his 23rd Illinois district constituents.

Congressman Price was referring to the presidential campaign tax check-off provision that Congress approved last year.

"It's not that difficult, but it will take a little extra effort as the taxpayer fills out the 1972 income tax form," Price explained.

All a taxpayer needs to do is use Form 4875 included in the Federal tax forms. By using Form 4875, the Internal Revenue Service will place $1 (or $2 on a joint return) in one of two types funds for 1976 presidential candidates.

"The $1 or $2 can be directed to a specific political party for its presidential candidate in 1976. Or, the contribution can be directed into a nonpartisan general account for all eligible candidates for the presidency."

The contribution will not cost the taxpayer a single cent, Price said. It will not be added to the tax owed or added to the withholding that has already been paid or deducted from any tax refund that is due.

"This is the easiest and most painless method of seeing that your money backs the candidate of the political party of your choice. And it costs you nothing at all. Not a penny."

"It means that the political party of your choice will have the funds to run its campaign

Carpools, Buses Termed Most Economical Rides

Carpools and buses offer the most economical way to break the nation's traffic jams, according to a study of commuting modes surveyed by the Highway Users Federation.

The study, "Comparison of Urban Travel Economic Costs", involves an analysis of the economic costs of commuting by automobiles, bus and rail transit, and a comparison of the costs of various commuting modes surveyed.

Except for an automobile carrying only the driver, rail transit trips were found to be the most expensive of all the commuting modes surveyed.

Carpools carrying two or more persons and buses operating on city streets provide the most economical means of commuting, according to the study findings.

The economic costs considered include more than the obvious costs of operating the vehicles. Also included are the capital costs for purchase of the vehicles, parking costs for automobiles, and all costs related to construction, maintenance and operation of highways and facilities for bus and rail transit.

In most cases, the costs are included in all capital costs. For an average one-way, 10-mile commuting trip, half on freeways and half on arterial streets, the cost per commuter of a four-person carpool was computed at 86 cents. A trip by bus on arterial streets was estimated to cost 86 cents.

The automobile with only the driver was found to be the most expensive of all the commuting modes, costing $2.64. Rail transit trips ranged from $2.52 to $1.66, depending upon the various methods used for the transit trip.

The study report noted that the costs of constructing rail lines and freeways are similar, but the relatively low rail transit patrons make the cost per ride extremely high.

The study also noted that even with a doubling of the official projected ridership of rail transit, which is considered unlikely, the per person economic cost of the 10-mile trip would still be high in comparison to the conventional bus trip or the cost for each person in a carpool of three.

The federation's report points out that some federal agencies and local corporations encourage carpooling among their employees. On the Oakland-San Francisco Bay Bridge, carpools of three or more persons can cross for a reduced toll. They are also provided with a special lane through the toll plaza. Preferential treatment of carpools is a potentially valuable technique which deserves greater application, the report stated.

The Highway Users Federation is a non-profit organization representing more than 600 businesses and industries dedicated to the advancement of safe and efficient highway transportation.

Alumnus Magazine Initiated at SIUE

The first issue of the new Alumnus magazine for members of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Alumni Association has been mailed to almost 12,000 graduates.

The magazine is the first major project of the group since the previously system-wide SIUE Alumni Association was divided into campus associations. In the future it will be published quarterly in March, June, September and December. Prior to the inception of the SIUE Alumnus, graduates received a system-wide magazine published in Carbondale.

Mildred Arnold is editor of the new magazine, Charles H. Cox is the photographer and Terry Harper is the designer. Warren Stokely is the executive director of the association. The first issue carries photographs of 17 officers and directors of the new association.

Gail Bunker, of Granite City, first SIUE graduate in 1888, is the president of the association. Donald Marshall of Alton, who graduated in 1898, is the president-elect.

Other articles in the first issue are "Happy Hooker in the Classroom," dealing with what Betty Richardson, a member of the SIUE English department faculty calls myths that destroy women, a personality sketch of Paul Guenther, professor of foreign languages and literature, and an explanation of superconductivity by Ronald Bruno of the physics department.
